THE POLYCHROME BIBLE.

THE BOOK OF LEVITICUS. A New English Translation. Printed in Colors, Exhibiting the Composite Structure of the Book. With Explanatory Notes and Pictorial Illustrations. By the Rev. S. R. Driver, D. D., Oxford, assisted by the Rev. H. A. White, M. A., Oxford, Octavo, pp. viii, 106. Dodd, Mead & Co.

We have already noticed three numbers of the Polychrome Bible, namely, Judges, Isaiah and the ms. It is unnecessary here, therefore, to refer to the general scope and character of this enture in Biblical scholarship, except to say that t aims to give a modern and accurate translation of the Bible from the most approved text, and at the same time to indicate by different colors the ferent documents or traditions embodied in the parrative by the writer. As for the present volume, it fuifils the high promise of those that have eded it. Dr. Driver's translation is smooth and idiomatic, while his standing as a Biblical scholar insures a translation that will give a far as possible the exact meaning of the original As in the case of the other numbers, the volume embellished with numerous illustrations. The notes are concise and helpful.

NOTES.

A work of the greatest value to students of the Bible is "The Documents of the Hexateuch," by W. E. Addis, M. A., of Balliol College, Oxford (G. P. Putnam's Sons), of which the second and last volume, containing the Deuteronomical Writers and The Priestly Documents, has just appeared. It is the aim of Mr. Addis in this work to translate and arrange the various documents that are dovefirst six books of the Bible. He has done so in a satisfactory manner, and the reader who takes up this work will find in luminous and compact form the approved conclusions of modern scholarthip in regard to the sources of the Hexateuch.

by Dr. Charles F. Sitterly, of Drew Theological Seminary (Eaton & Mains), is a helpful little volume, explaining in simple language the mechanical and literary processes involved in the writing and preservation of the New Testament manu-scripts. It contains also a table of MSS, and thirteen fac-simile plates.

The Macmillan Company brings out "The Hope of Immortality," by the Rev. J. E. C. Welldon, head master of Harrow School, which will disappoint those who expect certainty on that question. The volume, which is packed full of suggestive thought, is accurately described by its title; it gives reasons, and cogent reasons, too, for the hope of immortality, and leaves to sophomores and ciolists the absolute proof of it.

ous but withal interesting volume, entitled "Lestroduction by the Rev. Dr. Hugh Macmillan. It forced by apt stories and illustrations relating to the habits, relations, instincts, peculiarities and ministries of living creatures. The volume is read-

The American Baptist Publication Society, of Philadelphia, issues a volume of thoughtful and practical essays, entitled "Current Questions for of this city. The same publishers also offer a vol-ume of excellent sermons by Dr. MacArthur, entitled "The Attractive Christ."

"The Christian Pastor and the Working Church." by the Rev. Dr. Washington Gladden (Charles logical Library series. It presents with great clearness and force the present-day conception of the ministry and the Church, as held by liberal

A charming autobiography is that of the Rev. Dr. A. Toomer Porter, of Charleston, S. C., brought out by G. P. Putnam's Sons. It is entitled "Led On," and it is a graphic picture of clerical, military, educational and plantation life in the South in the period between 1828 and 1898. It thus embraces the old and the new South, and gives some interesting episodes of the war, in which Dr. Porter was himself an active participant. The author, who is one of the most widely known Episcopal clergymen in the South, has gained a National Christian education. He was among the first men in the South to recognize the duty, of the region in the education of the colored race, and his inthe war with numerous philanthropists and men ceived the most generous assistance in the estabful descriptions in the volume of the old-time gensame time the tendencies of the new South are clearly indicated. The book is dedicated to the late Rev. Dr. Charles Frederick Hoffman, of this city, who took a warm interest in Dr. Porter's educational work, as, indeed, he did in all educa-

Thomas Whittaker brings out another volume of sermons by the Rev. Dr. Hugh Macmillan, en-titled "The Spring of the Day." They exhibit much the same literary brilliancy, coupled with a sympathetic feeling for nature, that characterizes all Dr. Macmillan's works.

"Divine Immanence," by J. R. Illingworth (the Macmillan Company), treats of the spiritual significance of matter. The author's argument is carefully and interestingly worked out, but it will be a sealed book to all except those who are al-ready firm believers in the existence of a spiritual

"The Twentieth Century City," by the Rev. Josiah Strong, D. D. (the Baker & Taylor Company), first diagnoses civilization and then prescribes for ft. But we fail to see anything very strikingly original in either the diagnosis or the prescription. of Christ's Gospel, the twentieth century city would be aimost ideally perfect. Such is the thought that appears and reappears in Dr. Strong's earnest and well-meant plea. But how that desirable state of affairs shall be brought about is still the unsolved

E. P. Dutton & Co. bring out a little volume of 'Addresses to Women Engaged in Church Work," by Bishop Henry C. Potter. Not only in matter, but in style, they are most felicitous, and they will prove helpful and interesting to the great army of Christian women engaged in religious work. From Dodd, Mead & Co. we have received "The Mystery of Life," by Harry E. Richards, M. D., which is described in the sub-title as a study of revelation in the light of science. The author makes the point that revelation is not contrary to science, but above it, or, rather, outside of its sphere, in regard to which much, of course, may be said that is plausible, if not absolutely convincing. The same publishers issue a series of sensible and suggestive letters to minis-ters, entitled "The Clerical Life," by Dr. John Watson and other well-known clergymen.

From D. Appleton & Co. comes a good collection of essays upon problems of philosophy and of life, entitled "Studies of Good and Evil," by Professor Josiah Royce, of Harvard. The volume is char-acterized by honest and acute thinking along the lines of idealistic philosophy.

PUBLISH TO-DAY: YESTERDAYS IN THE PHILIPPINES.

By JOSEPH EARLE STEVENS, an ex-resident of Manila. With 3? full-page illustrations from photographs by the author. 12mo, $1.50.

This very entertaining volume, by an American who spent two years in Manila, contains exactly what every American wants to know at present about these far off Islands and the conditions of life there. The strange natives and the life of the foreign population of Manila; the marvellous cheapness of living; the house snakes and other animal drawbacks; the earthquakes and typhoons—of these and many matters of deeper significance the author discourses, easily, yet with much discorment.

A REMARKABLE BOOK BY A NEW WRITER LIFE IS LIFE.

And Other Tales and Episodes. By ZACK. 12mo, $1.50.

This first volume by a comparatively new author has been creating something of a sensation in literature circles in England, where "distinguished critics have compared the work to that of Emily Bronts."

—Pail Mail Gazette.

The Academy says: "We advise everybody who cares r distinguished work to read 'Life is Life.' is not merely a book of promise. It is a performance, and a fine performance."

STORIES BY FOREIGN AUTHORS.

"Two more of these fascinating little volumes in green. We have already called attention to the excellent judgment exercised in the selection of these takes and to the attractiveness of their binding and printing."—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin. -Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

A HISTORY OF MODERN EUROPE.

By FERDINAND SCHWILL, Ph. D., Assistan Professor of History in the University of Chicago. With maps, bibliographies and genealogical tables. Svo, pp. 400. $1.50 net. This important volume, by an eminent authority, supplies what has heretofore been entirely lacking; a comprehensive survey in a single volume of the course of events in Europe since the Italian Renaissance. As a text-book or for the general reader of history who desires to gain a broadly intimate acquaintance with this period, it will be found invaluable.

THE STORY OF THE MIND.

NEW BOOKS.

Professor JAMES MARK BALDWIN, of Princeton University. Library of Useful Stories. 16mo. Illustrated. Cloth, 40 cents.

In this work Professor Baldwin outlines the development of mind from its first manifestations in the brute to its fullest expression in man. The usual simplicity of the Series is maintained as far as possible without sacrificing the vitality of the topic, and the general readableness of the volume commends it to a large class.

NEWS FROM THE BIRDS

By LEANDER S. KEYSER. Appleton's Home-Reading Books. 12mo. Cloth, 60 cents net. This little book of tidings from birdiand has been written with two purposes in mind. The first is, to furnish actual instruction, to tell some new facts about bird life that have not yet been recited—that is, in short, to give a little bird 'news.' The second purpose of the book is inspiration. It is not intended for a key. Instead of telling all that is or may be known about a particular bird, only such incidents are recited as will spur the reader to go out into the fields and woods and study the birds in their native haunts.

HAROLD'S RAMBLES.

By J. W. TROEGER. 40 cents net. (Second volume of Nature Study Readers). Appleton's Home-Reading Books.

This book contains in most part a record of the observa-tions of a child with his elder companions, and contains information gleaned during walks and short excursions into the fields and along the readsides. The constant aim has been not to weary the child with details, but to give such information as to lead to accurate and more extended
